

Salvador Dali experiments with proportion, movement and perspective in these two images i have chosen, there is however further art works of his that you could use or would compliment these.

These images are a good talking point for what can you see?

and great for what do you like and why?

asking the children also what looks strange or not quite right about these pictures? A great way to explore what the children know about the world around them!

